GEORGE JONES

Saturday, October 24th, 2009
Live @ K-Rock Centre (Kingston, ON)

KINGSTON, ON – Country music legend, George Jones will return to Canada in October 2009 with a tour stop in Kingston!

George Jones first hit the charts in the 1950s. In April 1999, he celebrated the 40th anniversary of his first Number One record, the rockabilly-flavored “White Lightning.” Through the decades, Jones has transcended country music trends. Whether the times have favored honky-tonk songs or lushly produced and orchestrated “pop” offerings, George Jones has continued to make his own brand of country music, which had produced hits in the last six decades.

In fact, George Jones has had more charted singles than any other artist in any format in the history of popular music. His classic 1980 rendering of “He Stopped Loving Her Today” was voted the Greatest Country Song of All Time in a nationwide poll of country music radio listeners. Jones, at 75, continues to headline more than 100 concerts a year. George Jones Latest Album titled BURN YOUR PLAYHOUSE DOWN: The Unreleased Duets is a collection of never before heard duets between Jones and an illustrious group of guest stars. The recordings range from the mid-70s with his ex-wife, the First Lady of Country Music, Tammy Wynette to the most recent recording from 2007 with his daughter, Georgette, the only child from the union of George and Tammy.

George Jones, one of the last of country music's great classic stars will be appearing at K-Rock Centre on Saturday, October 24th, 2009
